Float Construction Recommendations

- The traditional approach to float construction is a wooden frame covered with chicken wire and stuffed with tissues/napkins.
- Flatbed trucks or trailers make appropriate bases. If a car is to be used, the driver must have clear vision of the area in front of and to both sides of the float for safety.
- If floats have riders, they must have firm footing and secure handholds.
- Select a location on the hill for float construction to make it easy to transport to the parade line-up. The total height of the float must clear all power lines.
