

The Los Alamos Public Schools Administration is putting a call out to recruit Science Fair Mentors willing to help increase the student participation of this foundational learning event. The goal of the initiative is to improve the outcome of Los Alamos Student participation in the Science Fair at all levels. The Science Fair Mentors are requested to devote time – September through January - to the school of their choice within the Los Alamos Public School District. The volunteer time will require meeting with teachers and students to assist with shaping ideas into the process of a science fair project. Mentors will also guide students who might need a helping hand during the research and background stage of the scientific process to learn more about how the research might matter, to get a better understanding of the problem at hand, and be ready for the judging. Your enthusiastic and focused help is appreciated. Please provide your contact information as soon as possible with the school preference as soon as possible to Eva Abeyta, District Science Fair Coordinator at Los Alamos Public Schools, e.abeyta@laschools.net or \(505\) 663-2458663-2458)
