

Zero Waste Art Competition

The Los Alamos County Environmental Services wants your art! We have a new recycle truck that needs a piece of art to display all over the community.

The theme this year is Zero Waste. What does Zero Waste mean? Zero Waste means sending ZERO trash to the landfill. Check out the local Zero Waste Facebook page (Zero Waste Los Alamos) or Google Zero Waste for more ideas!

This contest is for artists K-12!

Competition ends April 19th. Winners will be announced during the Earth Day celebration April 27th.

3 Easy and Fun Steps to Participate

THINK & DESIGN

Think about what Zero Waste subject is your favorite. Then with a 8" x 10" piece of paper start drawing and designing your piece of art!

SIGN & DELIVER

Once you have completed your wonderful piece of art, sign your name. No name, no fame. Now that it is 100% complete, deliver it to the Los Alamos County Eco Station located at 3701 E Jemez Rd and sign a release form.

WAIT & WIN

Once the competition ends Environmental Services will look at all the fantastic art pieces, vote, and pick the winner. The winner's art will be displayed on the side of our new recycle truck and will receive a Zero Waste kit!
